Section I Citizenship Verification for Medicaid

The Children's Health Insurance Program Reauthorization Act (CHIPRA) of 2009 allows states to use an alternative process for verifying United States citizenship or nationality when an individual applying for Medicaid declares to be a US citizen or national and has provided a Social Security Number. Additional information detailing this process will be sent prior to the October 18, 2010 migration.

Section III New AFA Code 914 – Puerto Rican Birth Certificate Validation Pending

It has been discovered that information on birth certificates issued in the territory of Puerto Rico has been used to issue counterfeit birth certificates for the purposes of obtaining benefits in the United States. All birth certificates issued prior to 10/01/10 by Puerto Rico will be considered invalid and individuals born in Puerto Rico holding birth certificates issued by Puerto Rico's Department of Health prior to 10/01/10 will be advised to request new birth certificates from Puerto Rico's Vital Records Office. The Vital Record's office will issue new birth certificates and update the Social Security Administration's records if necessary.

A unique Anticipated Future Action (AFA) Code 914 – Puerto Rican Birth Certificate Validation Pending will be used to identify individuals who are authorized benefits on or after 10/01/10 based on a declaration of U.S. citizenship established by birth in the territory of Puerto Rico and a valid SSN.

The unique AFA 914 will allow WMS to identify and report the recipients with pending new and valid Puerto Rican birth certificates for a match with the Social Security Administration. The Citizenship Verification for Medicaid will be run 10/18/10 and will include individuals with the new AFA 914 that meet the defined criteria. Additional information about the Citizenship Verification will be sent prior to the migration.

The new AFA Code 914- Puerto Rican Birth Certificate Validation Pending, will be used with Case Types 20 and 24 to identify recipients with Puerto Rican Birth Certificates whose eligibility is authorized 10/01/10 or later. This new AFA Code, along with the Line Number of the recipient possessing the birth certificate issued in the territory of Puerto Rico will be worker entered. No anticipated Future Action Date is required with this entry.
